

A non-profit space, teaching commercially-applicable skills for creative industries.

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

Oakwood Arts' Mission is to make art and careers in creative industries accessible to all through community engagement, inspiring programming, and experiential education. We plant the seeds of artistic entrepreneurship through lectures, mentoring, and networking events and guide interested students in the preparation for careers in creative fields.

Oakwood Arts' internships are part-time (5-12 hrs./week) and unpaid but can qualify for school credit depending on the candidate's department.

The ideal candidate is motivated, able to handle multiple kinds of tasks, and has a passion for working in a non-profit setting and working closely with community members. We are looking for candidates that have an interest in teaching, inspiring, guiding, and helping to create opportunities for young creatives.

We are looking for those who have some experience in one or more of the following: graphic design, web design, photography and video production, marketing, art history, and/or non-profit management.

Oakwood Arts' internships are highly flexible depending on the applicant's interests. Interns receive hands-on experience and resume-building skills including but not limited to:

- program development
- teaching
- community engagement
- graphic design
- video production
- photo documentation
- art handling
- fundraising
- marketing
- administrative experience
- networking opportunities through events
- building relationships with professionals in creative industries

Please submit the following:

- a brief letter of interest to admin@oakwoodarts.org
- A completed internship application
